Dale Carnegie of Western Connecticut

Dear Bob,

I have just finished my four month internship with Dale Carnegie Training of Western Connecticut and I can say with confidence that I have been changed for the better! I didn't know what to expect upon starting the internship. I knew this company did trainings to help other companies but I did not know how they did it, or how much impact the trainings have on people. I decided to start my internships after one year of classes because I wanted to get more background in the field. I had no previous training in the psychology, human resource, or training and development fields. During my time with Dale Carnegie, I feel that I have gained an invaluable store of knowledge that I will take with me the rest of my life. It will influence my career, as well as my personal life.

As I was able to complete the many and varied projects, I was able to see my work habits improve. I have become more detail-oriented and able to see how each project benefited the company and the clients that saw and used them. I was also able to attend a few trainings! This is the aspect of the internship where I gained the most value. I was able to see part of a High Impact Performance training as well as multiple Teen programs. Although I was not able to participate, being able to be in the training opened my eyes to a lot of new ways of approaching situations and how to be more engaging. These experiences were also helpful in seeing the big picture of how the company is run and how the work I did behind the scenes impacted the business.

I will forever treasure my time here at Dale Carnegie! The knowledge I gained and the people I met and worked with were priceless. Throughout the experience, everyone has been so helpful and kind as well as patient when I had questions. I am extremely grateful for the opportunity I had to intern here and I can say that I am a better and more positive person than when I started. This is not just another internship; it is a life-changing moment in time that will improve your quality of life as well as provide in-depth training and development experience.

Sincerely,

David Ames
